WHAT DOES CBC MORTGAGE AT FIRST FEDERAL BANK DO WITH YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION?

Why?

Financial companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some but not all sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share, and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do.

What?

The types of personal information we collect and share depend on the product or service you have with us. This information can include but is not limited to:

- Social Security number and income
- account balances and mortgage rates and payments
- credit history and credit scores

When you are no longer our customer, we continue to share your information as described in this notice.

How?

All financial companies need to share customers' personal information to run their everyday business. In the section below, we list the reasons financial companies can share their customers' personal information; the reasons CBC Mortgage chooses to share; and whether you can limit this sharing.

CBC Mortgage at First Federal Bank

What we do

How does CBC Mortgage protect my personal information?

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings.

We do not collect identifying information about visitors to our site; we do use standard software (“Cookies”) to collect information for the strict purpose of tracking activity on our site.

How does CBC Mortgage collect my personal information?

We collect your personal information, for example, when you

- give us your income information or provide employment information
- give us your contact information or apply for a loan
- provide your mortgage information

We also collect your personal information from other companies.

Why can't I limit all sharing?

Federal law gives you the right to limit only

- sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes— information about your creditworthiness
- affiliates from using your information to market to you
- sharing for nonaffiliates to market to you

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing.
